Five-card draw (also known as Cantrell draw) is a poker variant that is considered the simplest variant of poker, and is the bas is for video poker. As a result, it is often the first variant learned by new player s. It is commonly played in home games but rarely played in casino and tournament play. The varian t is also offered by some online venues, although it is not as popular as other variants such as seven-card stud and Texas hold'em.

Gameplay [edit]

In casino play the first betting round begins with the player to the left of the big blind, and subsequent rounds begin with the player to the dealer's left. Home games typically use an ante; the first betting round begins with the player to the dealer's left, and the second round begins with the player who opened the first round.

Play begins with each player being dealt five cards, one at a time, all face down. The remaining dec k is placed aside, often protected by placing a chip or other marker on it. Players pick up the cards and hold them in their hands, being careful to keep them concealed from the oth er players, then a round of betting occurs.[1]

If more than one player remains after the first round, the "draw" phase begins. Each player specifies how many of their cards they wish to replace and discards them. The deck is retrieved, and each player is dealt in turn from the deck the same number of cards they discarded so that each player a gain has five cards.

A second "after the draw" betting round occurs beginning with the player to the dealer's left or else beginning with the player who ope ned the first round (the latter) Tj T* BT /F1 12 Tf 50 80 Td (is common v
