Important callout: Certain gambling winnings are exempt from US tax, including craps, baccarat, roulette, or big six wheel. Non-US residents who win the national lottery are not subject to US tax on their winnings. However, if you are a US resident, you must report your gambling winnings on your tax return. This includes money earned through gambling on offshore games, and it counts money you earn overseas. Do you have to pay taxes on offshore winnings? It depends on the type of game and your country of residence. For example, if you are a US resident and you win the lottery, you must report your winnings on your tax return. However, if you are a non-US resident and you win the lottery, you are not subject to US tax on your winnings. This is because the lottery is considered a "game of chance" and is exempt from US tax.
