Whenever people hear about me using poker in virtual team events, I usually get one of two reactions:

ever take a seat at the virtual poker table with my 8 , £ team?

This post is about achieving some clarity and new perspectives, especially for group number 2 (thou) Tj T* BT /

Now, playing poker in teams can indeed support team building in several ways. When I talk about playing in teams, 8 , £ I'm referring to the so-called

Team-Poker-Concept, where people don't play by themselves BUT in group s of usually 2 or 3 8 , £ people. This concept was a gift from Corona, as the pandemic fo rced me to either give up using poker as 8 , £ a team-building method or find a way to transfe r the intense experience in the virtual environment.

Here are 8 things 8 , £ your team can win at the poker table using the Team-Poker-Concept Communication: Playing poker in small teams requires players to communicate 8 , £ effectively with each other. In t eam poker, players

need to share information, discuss strategies, and make decisions coll ectively. This turns 8 , £ the traditional approach of playing just by yourself upside down and as a result fosters better communication skills within the 8 , £ team, as members l earn to express their thoughts clearly and listen to others' perspectives. Otherwise, the ch ance of success drops 8 , £ significantly. Like in business! Trust and Collaboration: T rust is the most valuable resource you have in your team. And it's 8 , £ crucial in team poker as well. Why?

Because players must rely on each other's judgments and actions. Colla borative

decision-making becomes 8 , £ essential, as team members need to work t ogether to maximize their chances of winning. Playing poker as a team encourages 8 , £ trus t-building activities and helps team members understand each other's strengths and weaknesse

s. And believe
