Billericay Town have been made the favourites to win the 2024/18

Isthmian Premier League title by betting company Betway.

On Tuesday

(August) Tj T* BT /F1 12 Tf 50 476 Td (8),

owner Glenn Tamplin

has further added to his squad with the signings of former

Wolves defender Kevin Foley and a 2006/07 Champions League runner-up with Liverpool in midfielder

Jermaine Pennant

- giving them a much stronger squad heading into the new campaign.

Billericay were originally given a first show of 13/8 with the leading online bookmaker, but thanks to the intake of new talent from higher divisions and again securing the services of former England international Paul Konchesky and Tottenham midfielder Jamie O'Hara, the odds that been slashed to 2/5 favourites.

The confidence in Tamplin's side is so high at present that the closest rivals in the betting odds for taking the crown instead of

has been opened not including the Essex side, placing Dulwich as 3/1 favourite.

Betway's Alan Alger said: "Whilst the buzz is building ahead of the start of the Premier League, a big gamble has been going on far lower down the leagues.

"Billericay Town have been punted all the way in from 13/8 to a current 2/5 for the Isthmian

Premier.

"Having Jermaine Pennant and Paul Konchesky in the ranks has clearly instilled
