Prop betting seeks to proposition the bettor with a question, one that may or may not have a direct bearing on the final score. For example: How many receiving yards will Tyreek Hill have? What is the point spread for the game? These are the types of questions that are commonly seen in prop betting. The standard line for MLB is +1.5 runs, which means that the favorite must win by at least two runs. What is a split line? In betting, a split line is a line that is set at a certain point, but it can move in either direction. For example, if the line is set at +1.5 runs, but the favorite wins by 2 runs, the line will move to +0.5 runs. This is a common occurrence in prop betting.
